TAFT CONFIRMED AS CHIEF JUSTICE BY U. S. SENATORS

ONLY FOUR OPPOSE APPOINTMENT OF EX-PRESIDENT.

LA FOLLETTE ONE

Borah, Johnson and Watson Remainder of Dissenting Group.

Washington.—William Howard Taft, former president of the United States, will succeed the late Chief Justice White as head of the United States supreme court, when that tribunal convenes in October.

Nominated by President Harding Thursday, Mr. Taft's confirmation was voted by the senate in executive session little more than an hour afterward.

Confirmation was not without opposition. Senators Borah, Johnson, La Follette and Watson of Georgia, voted against the confirmation. According to reports, Borah and Johnson expressed criticism of Mr. Taft's capacity for the position.

When the committee reported the nomination favorably in executive session and unanimous consent was obtained for immediate consideration, the nomination was brought up for a vote.

The defense of Mr. Taft, it was said, was led by Democrats. Senator Underwood said Mr. Taft had been named "by the senate largely through the appointment of a southerner, the late Chief Justice White."

Senator Borah made the principal speech in opposition to confirmation. He declared that Mr. Taft had been separated from the law for thirty years and had devoted most of his life to politics.

During his political career, he said, Mr. Taft had never tried a case nor presided as a judge. He also called attention to the fact that Mr. Taft is 63 years old, with a record of judicial retirement.

"We took a great lawyer from the bench and shoved him into politics," Mr. Borah is reported to have said in the executive session.

Senator Johnson spoke along similar lines.

McGinley Given Big Award for Loss of Legs

Damages Granted by Jury in Minnesota, Says Telegram to Mother Here—Defense Alleges Scuffle Caused Accident at Local Yards Year Ago.

Clarence McGinley was awarded a verdict of $45,000 by the jury trying his $75,000 personal injury suit against the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad following a trial in Granite Falls, Minnesota. A telegram stating the award of the jury was received Thursday night by Mrs. D. McGinley, mother of Clarence McGinley, South Jackson street.

The verdict is based on injuries suffered by Clarence McGinley on June 12, 1920 while an employee at the St. Paul railroad yards in this city.

Disregard Injunction. Both legs were so badly mangled in the railroad accident that amputation of both was necessary. Suit was started in the Minnesota court through Attorneys Davis and Michel, of Minneapolis, who filed a complaint alleging damages at $75,000. An attempt was made to stop the trial of the litigation through injunction proceedings taken in the Rock county circuit court by Thomas S. Nelson.

The injunction proceedings were apparently ineffective on the claim that the Wisconsin court could not restrain a Minnesota court once the litigation was underway.

Exceptional Verdict. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad was represented in court by C. W. Wright, former Montgomery Ward & Co. manager, and the railroad in St. Paul, Attorney John Root. St. Paul, conducted the case for the defense.

The Janesville witnesses called in the case were F. W. Zimmerman, general agent, Charles J. Richter, Barney Geary, Charles Gregory, William Dowd and W. B. Wilcox.

McGinley, who was 21 years old when he was injured, was a member of the St. Paul Academy at Madison, Wis., and was a member of the St. Paul Academy at Madison, Wis., and was a member of the St. Paul Academy at Madison, Wis.

A trap was set for the writer of the note, Thursday night, but he was not caught. Police were on guard throughout the night but there were no new developments. One suspect was arrested but was released after he was able to satisfy police after close questioning at headquarters.

Following addresses by Rev. Mathew Allison, University Presbyterian pastor, the officers of the Janesville Presbyterian church voted Friday evening to increase the size of the Janesville church for the student work in Madison to $1,000. Six hundred dollars has already been given by the Janesville church to purchase property there. The pastors spoke at meeting of officers of the church. Dinner was served.

Another purpose of the alleged bribe was to enable Mr. Dubin to make false reports regarding liquor sold.

It was expected that Mr. White would be arraigned in federal court today.

Additional arrests of alleged members of the whiskey ring were expected Friday.

SMILE, IS ORDER TO POSTAL EMPLOYEES
 Don't take it as a personal preference if the young woman who mailed out the money orders or helps you transmit business at the postoffice, beams on you with unwonted friendliness.

This is quite in vogue in the Janesville post office and is an accommodation with a request of Postmaster General Will Hays for a more cordial spirit existing between the post office and the public.

MILLERS TOLD OF CO-OPERATIVE PLAN

Grain Growers' Organization 'Sound and Safe, Speaker Asserts.

Chicago—The United States Grain Growers, Inc. is built from the group on a foundation of co-operative effort that has room before and that has proved sound, safe and sure. H. C. Gustafson, president of the organization, Friday asserted before the convention of the Millers' National Federation.

President Gustafson outlined 20 years of co-operative effort among farmers against discrimination and unfair practices in the grain trade, which has resulted in more than 4,500 rural communities possessing farmer-owned elevators. He also spoke of the attacks made against the principle of co-operation in grain marketing and defended his organization, which he defined as a "non-stock, non-profit association of farmers to market grain at cost for the membership."

"It has been a narrow, rough, stony, winding road from farm to market. We are going to straighten that road and make it wider so there will be room for honest and fair competition."

An appeal to manufacturers and shippers of America to "quit knocking and start patronizing the shipping board" was made Thursday night by Admiral W. S. Benson, former chairman of the board.

The Pines Open Sunday Afternoons and Evenings.
 On and after Sunday, July 3rd, the PINES will be open Sunday afternoons and evenings. NO DANCING. Come in and enjoy an evening of Music and Refreshments.

JACK WANTED FIGHT HERE 5 YEARS AGO; HIS PRICE WAS $75
 Janesville five years ago had a chance to get Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, in a wining battle at the old rink arena here for 10 rounds at the very great and magnificent sum of $75. He would have let the local promoters pick his opponent. No deal was made, however. Promoters of the old South Wisconsin boxing club which then held forth here are dreaming over those days. They shake their heads when they think how times have changed. Seventy-five dollars, they say, for a 10-round scrap and now Dempsey is getting $200,000 for 15!

A Lawn Social will be held Friday evening on St. Patrick's Church lawn by Circle No. 7. Ice Cream and other refreshments will be served.
 All Are Invited.

LA FOLLETTE OPENS POLITICAL BATTLE

Followers Loaded for Broadsides Against Foes of Tax Changes.

Madison.—The end of the legislature has started political activity among the La Follette republicans of the state, who are about to open their guns on legislators who have stood out against tax changes during the past session.

Taxation was the keynote of the first La Follette political address by Governor Blaine since his inauguration, delivered at Albion Wednesday.
This will be followed by a second,
which is expected will be even more significant, to be delivered July 4 at Blair.

The governor is not alone in starting the political forces to work.
Senator Severson, who spoke with Governor Blaine at Albion, plans a series of talks through his home district, emphasizing the taxation issue, he says.

Dahl Will Stamp
Assemblyman Dahl, administration leader in the lower house, says he has been asked to make political speeches in Barron county.

Governor Blaine laid down the issue on which the so-called progressive republicans are about to lay stress from now on—taxation—equalizing the burdens so that those best able to pay will bear their share of the expense of government.

Prohibition exploded as an issue when the governor accepted his own dry bill after it had been amended to prohibit manufacture of home brew for home use. The Anti-Saloon League has said that the measure is satisfactory to them in the form it was finally accepted, and it is at the same time satisfactory to the government, leaving everybody happy.

Agitation is being started now, while the legislature is still a subject of some lively interest, the records of members standing out for scrutiny.
There will be a concentrated effort to replace opposition members of the lower house by progressives. Holdovers in the senate make it almost impossible to capture the upper house.

Up to the present time no outward attempt has been made by those who represent the opposition faction to bring about any organization, or to set up any counter issues. Little talk of politics is being heard around the capital except among the La
Follette progressives.

This is a Paramount

"Behold My Wife" is a sister production to "Humoresque" and be-

It is a great problem

City Paper Bill Black-Penciled by Gov. Blaine

Madison.—Governor Blaine "Friday vetoed the Nye bill placing the official city paper of cities of the second and third class on the basis of circulation in considering the cost of printing. He says in his message that the measure would only serve to increase the cost of city government.

The bill would require that cities pay for their printing on the basis of circulation, "having no other ef-cost of city printing in cities of the second and third class," the governor says.

"The present law has served a

WHEN A SPADE IS A SPADE.

The Gazette has a letter from a reader who seems to be offended over the statement that the contest at Jersey City was to be a mere fight and not an exhibition of boxing skill. Our friend seems to like to deceive himself. "It is a great lesson in the manly art of self defense," he avers with some heat. Hebbes so; mebbe so. And if he wishes to think about it that way we say to him, "Go in peace and be happy." Have it any way the public wants it, but we submit that there is nothing manly about it. It is as brutal as can be made and because there is a lot of the brute in us and much of that old cave man stuff that made eye gouging and mayhem generally a desirable pastime in the cruder, ruder days of prize fighting, when there was no referee and no Marquis of Queensbury hand book, we still enjoy it. If our friend will look over the fighting game has been participated in by bullies, bouncers and star tough necks. Tom Neate, Heenan, Sayres, Joe Coburn, Jake Kilrain, all of them and then our own Jawn L. Sullivan, roysterer and tough, soiled in later life by association; and the unspeakable Jack Johnson—the whole look and caboodle of them have never made any claims to being exponents of the "gentle art of self defense," but simply came into prominence as hard hitters and safe smashers. If one wants to be interested in a prize fight, why try to fool oneself into putting ruffles on the pick ax or painting bucolic landscapes on the side of the meat cleaver?

We are, as a people, interested in this fight because we either want to see the husky and hard-bellied Dempsey hit the French coal miner so hard that he will stay down. If he has a lacerated face, teeth loosened, an eye closed, a lip split and just lands this side of the nearby gates, so much the better; or we hope the temperamental hard nut who has come over here for a pot of money larger than he could have obtained had he worked in the mines of Lens for a century, will manage to keep out of the way long enough to allow him an opportunity to land that fatal blow and crush Dempsey for keeps.

It is all as brutal as a dog fight and just about as elevating. Argument for ethics and all that is superfluous. If we like it let us say so and have done. No alibis will make it better by trying to put lace insertion on the ring rights, pink ribbons on the back robes or hanging the ropes with quotations from Elizabeth Barrett Browning. It is a fight between two tough human beings and the place of the referee is to see that murder is not committed. The Gazette correspondent should be honest with himself. Father no longer goes to the circus so that the children may see it; he goes to see it himself and takes the children. This is an age of honesty. If one does not believe it look at the women with bow legs wearing short skirts.

It is true as our correspondent says, many of the "best people" will be there. So also will be a crowd of the population raked up from the bottomless depths of depravity with the fine toothed comb of opportunity.

"Vetoitis," said the doctor as he came from the executive office at Madison, shaking his head hopelessly.

WHAT IS BEING DONE IN WASHINGTON.

We are prone to be somewhat impatient at congress and the administration. There were some who thought that the whole economic condition of the country would be changed in the twinkling of an eye. But in four months of the Harding administration, more has really been done than in the last 24 months of the Wilson regime. We have accomplished a wonderful amount in actual results. The peace resolution has gone through. An emergency tariff has been passed. Other measures have become laws. Greatest of all is the long step towards economy in governmental management and departmental administration. There is a new Controller general of the treasury who has powers beyond that of any official heretofore, in that he may dictate concerning balances and left-over funds and keep a careful watch on prevention of deficits. And we have had in operation now, for a few days, under the budget system, a Federal Council of Officials meeting with Mr. Dawes. It has taken 50 years to arrive at this step in efficiency. The waste and the shiftlessness that comes into official administration is to be checked and with the plan of co-ordination of department work and the transfer of bureaus under Walter Brown, it may well be said that there has been more business in President Harding's four months than we have known for many years.

M. Georges Carpentier, the perfect French gentleman, who is about to be introduced to the proletariat of the roped boudoir, J. Dempsey, has

CONGRATULATING MISSOURI

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—The state of Missouri, 240 years old this summer will tell the world the story of its achievements. In addition to the state fair at Sedalia, there will be many minor local celebrations, Missouri will loom large in the public eye and in public print. The most interesting thing about this proposed celebration is the large part which pagantry and story will play in it, according to plans. Missouri is a great industrial state and it is probable most of the rest of the country thinks of it as a business-minded place, famous for its corn and pork, its hard common sense and sound finance. All of these things it has, and all of them will be duly illustrated in the coming celebrations. But in addition to that, Missouri will be revealed as a state with a romantic past and a vivid, imaginative consciousness of it. All of its story will be told in legends and in local histories. Missourians will be taught to see themselves as the descendants of an heroic race, holding soil for which men have dared and died. That, of course, is the way any people should think of itself. It should have a national or race consciousness with roots that go deep into the past. A man should think of himself not as a being isolated in space and time, but as part of a long and interesting romance. Merely to know the vague outlines of national history is not enough. A man should know intimately the story of the soil on which he is born and lives, and the part his own forefathers played on it. National heroes and remote events are hard to grasp, but the doings of your own flesh and blood, and the things that happened in your own county easily become vivid to you and give you a new perspective on life.

There is perhaps no country in the world which is so devoid of this historical consciousness as the United States. An erroneous idea of the Revolutionary and Civil wars, set forth in dull histories and taught to sleepy school children, is all we have.

It is not this academic dishing up of history, cut and dried, which captures the popular imagination. In every other civilized country history has been made forever real to the people in great works of art, drama, novels, poems, songs. The life of the British people has been immortalized by great artists from Chaucer to Thackeray. The same is true of France, Germany and the Scandinavian countries. These countries have folk tales, ballads, songs, many of them of unknown origin, that carry the national story and traditions from generation to generation.

What has the United States to compare with this? Its story has been short but one of the most striking in the history of the race. The Revolutionary war produced nothing worthy to be called a great work of art. We have nothing left of that great epoch save a canned and somewhat ridiculous schoolbook version of it, in which George Washington is represented as a saint and the causes of the trouble are all obscured. Its emotions and color, its human values are lost forever.

The Civil war was a vastly more significant human event, and we have nothing to remember it by except a few bad melodramas and a few novels, most of which are not much better.

The exploration and conquest of the West is one of the most thrilling and astonishing things in human history. It has produced a single first-class novel, or, perhaps, the nearest thing to a work of art the western movement produced. Of late, there seems to have dawned in this country a certain consciousness of its literary poverty. Critics tell us that we are having a literary awakening. No doubt the great vogue of historical pageants is a part of this awakening. Missouri, perhaps without intending to do so, is contributing her share to this intellectual renaissance by digging up and celebrating her own history.

Missouri offers the artist a great and unused opportunity. Missouri is the heart of America, is America's great arena. All of the three great races which helped in the conquest of the new continent—English, Spanish, French—sailed down this great river, fought and explored, only a few generations ago, over the ground where Missouri's farms and cities are today. When the eastern half of the continent was won, the exploration and conquest of the western half, independence, now a quiet suburb of Kansas City, was long the starting point for the Santa Fe trail, by which the Yankee and Spanish parts of America were connected. This road opened up the Southwest and led to the Mexican war.

Missourians fought the Mexican war, too, for Kearney's command was made up largely of them. A Missourian in those days was a distinctive kind of man, famous for his racy speech, his cautiousness, his marvelous command over the reluctant mule and the deadly rifle. These hardy gentlemen who cleaned up the buffalo and kicked the red man off the prairie were largely from Missouri.

There is no room here to describe the crucial part Missouri played in the Civil war, nor the part she has played since in the industrial and political life of the country. No state has a story more significant, nor more typically American. Missouri may well be proud to tell it to the world.

cut his hair, apparently without thinking of the serious consequences which came to another prize fighter, John O. Samson, some time since.

President Harding in signing the army reduction bill called attention to the need for additional legislation to save the government from the stigma of breaking a contract with the men who have enlisted. Should the men break the contract prior to October 1, they will be arrested and tried as deserters. The government breaks its contract and cannot be punished.

A clever child in Assemblyman Johnny Dahl, of Barron, who is chuckling because in the marketing bill, he "put one over" on the statesmen of the assembly. The bill contains a joker providing for the publication of incomes. However, Mr. Dahl may have heard that he laughs best who snickers last.

French engineer has a device to protect ships against icebergs. One nice cool iceberg floating down Milwaukee street about noon would be welcomed without any device to protect us.

Dempsey will get $300,000 and Carpentier $200,000. It may not be all right for a soldier to have a bonus but we DO reward the fighters in 1921, do we not?

If it were not for the fear that Sec. Denby would reprimand him, some official might suggest Britain make an alliance with us and not Japan.

Late Bulletin from Jersey: "When last seen today, Georges Carpentier was reading 'What to do 'till the Doctor Comes.'"

We hereby order one set of books on what Senator France will not see in Russia, bound in blood red and partly ruined.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

HOWDY MISTER SUNSHINE.
Here's Howdy, Mister Sunshine, for you're welcome round the place.
We're mighty glad to greet you and to see your smiling face.
Just nose around the blossoms in the garden as you will.
And do a little dancing on each dusty window sill.
There's a sleepy boy up yonder that will give you back a smile.
If you'll let your brightest sunbeam go and tickle him awhile.

Here's Howdy, Mister Sunshine an' we're mighty glad you're back.
Come along an' spit the roses an' the peonies from your sack.
There's a pair of little robins in the elm tree nestin' high.
That have waited for your coming; an' today they'll sing they'll sing.
Cuz I've heard your mother tellin' to those most impatient things.
That the first day it was sunny she would let 'em try their wings.

Here's Howdy, Mister Sunshine, an' a welcome that is true.
Every thing thing, I fancy, gets the breath of you.
An' I don't know if you know it, but the baby seems to grin.
Just a little more delighted when you're ticklin' his chin.
An' the old man in his corner with his journey almost done,
Finds a thousand joys to please him when he's sittin' in the sun.

Here's Howdy, Mister Sunshine! Oh, it seems to me our girls
Are loveless the mornings you are dancin' in their curls.
An' though we must have sorrow an' there must be days of rain,
The joy is all the sweeter when you come to us again.
So it's Howdy, Mister Sunshine, from the lips of an old man's boy,

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

THE JESTER RETURNS.
Once more he takes the cap and bells—
Again he dons the motley garb.
And, quaffing deep of wisdom's wells,
Prays truth shall feather every barb.

Prince and pauper, rich man and knave—
Their spans are like an armfulme:
Their winding courses seek the grave,
With all the shimmering called lame.

The cosmic riddle still entrances—
Wise men, uneasy, cannot rest.
The clown, with joyous pliances,
Pronounces life a fruitful jest.

Once more he sports the cap and bells—
Again he wears the motley garb.
And, quaffing deep of wisdom's wells,
Know truth shall feather every barb.

Who's Who Today

VICE ADMIRAL H. P. JONES.

Vice Admiral Hilary P. Jones, the new commander of the U. S. navy, has seen thirty-seven years' active service in the country's defense. The new commander was born in Hanover Academy, Virginia, November 14, 1855, and graduated from the Naval Academy in 1874. He commanded the Scorpion, the Birmingham, the Tennessee, the Rhode Island and the Bermuda before reaching flag rank.

During the World war he first commanded Squadron 1 of the patrol force, Atlantic fleet, then Division 4 and the Newport News division of the cruiser and transport force, Atlantic fleet. Since 1919 he has been vice admiral of the United States navy, commanding the battleship force.

Admiral Jones was awarded Distinguished Service Medal for meritorious service during the World war.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

German War Brutes.

The first acquittal ordered by the Leipzig tribunal, which is engaged in trying the German war criminals, was that of a youth charged with cruelly mistreating Belgian children who were prisoners under his charge. The defendant was described as a "student" and a resident of the city of Leipzig. The evidence against him, collected in Belgium and effectively presented, was insufficient to move the Leipzig court to order any punishment.

The acquittal has resulted in a nation wide Belgian protest. It has been taken up in the Belgian parliament, and a demand has been voiced that the fate of trying German war criminals in a German tribunal be ended. The Belgians do not hesitate to point out that the men who have been convicted at Leipzig were all guilty of offenses against British prisoners and were pushed up to the front by Belgium. It is suggested that the different results indicate the Leipzig court's opinion of the power of Great Britain in the world. It is possible that the agitation in Belgium may result in a demand for greater severity in dealing with the war offenders who have been indicted by the Allies. Though the men convicted of mistreating British prisoners have been convicted their sentences have been judiciously inadequate. Belgium now urges that the stipulation of the Versailles treaty for the extradition and trial of the war criminals be carried out more effectively, and a considerable element in Great Britain will echo the demand.

It is worthy of note that as yet no German specifically named by the French has been brought to trial. It is interesting to see the reaction in France if the first one of these defendants is either acquitted or permitted to escape with nominal punishment.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FORTY YEARS AGO

July 1, 1881.—There were 11 intermarriages in Oak Hill cemetery during the month of June. The Robbins and Colvin show appeared in Detroit recently and won high praise from the papers in that city.—Highlanders from Chicago, with beards and dressed in the costumes of their native country will appear in the parade in the morning.

THIRTY YEARS AGO

July 1, 1891.—Sheriff John Hogan will be the chief marshal for the Fourth celebration in this city. The feature of the day's doings will be the parade on the main street in the morning. There was a train wreck in Shogora this morning, two engines having struck head-on.—A bad wreck was narrowly averted on the track crossing on a busy street this morning when the street car was stopped just in time to save being struck by a fast engine.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

July 1, 1901.—The East is in the midst of a five days' heat spell. It was reported to have been 124 on the streets of New York today.—50,000 steel men of Pittsburgh and other eastern cities are out on strike and are attempting to make the 200,000 members of the unions go out with them.

TEN YEARS AGO

July 1, 1911.—Battery F of Fort Sheridan, the artillery troops which will be in the sham battle here on the Fourth, will arrive in this city tomorrow, Sunday afternoon and will pitch camp at the Fair grounds. They will remain until Thursday. People are already flocking to the city and it is expected to be the biggest celebration ever held here.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author

REMOVAL OF TONSILS

I have observed certain throat specialists, who made the most noise about the importance of the complete removal of the tonsils, rather than mere amputation or cutting off the tonsils (tonsillectomy) rather than tonsillectomy, doing a spectacular but, not less, there is no other medical specialty in which so many utterly incompetent and unfit young men are meeting with success (financial) success. I am not referring so much to the nose and throat specialist, but to that too numerous and too shallow class of "specialists" who are as much a suitable field for their sketchy education as the eye, ear, nose and throat. The chin, neck, feet and liver they leave to indiscriminate practice. An eye doctor has some concern about the interest in the eyes, for diseases of the one are often found to produce disturbances of the other organ. But what reason is there to assume an eye doctor has for bungling ear troubles or why a throat specialist should purport to be also a specialist in eye diseases, is a problem which I imagine late Dr. Jell had in his shrewd calculations could not solve. During the Great War these all-around specialists sort of blushed and modestly accepted the title of "head specialists." Which rather left the generalists (internists) as honest-to-goodness all-around specialists in whatever ails a man (inside), and a few other last resort in rather embarrassing predicaments.

Whether the tonsils should be removed completely (a rather radical operation) or amputated, is an intricate problem in each case, and the patient's regular physician is far better fitted to decide than any specialist. A specialist may be jealous of "my method" and may be anxious to "make" his last hundred operations, but the patient is concerned about "my" tonsils.

A local anesthetic is sufficient for most such operations in adults and many children. For those who are undisciplined and weak in self-control a general anesthetic is preferable. In either case it is best to remove both tonsils at the same time.

Can you give me a recipe for the cure of gallstones, something that will dissolve them without an operation or dieting? (A. T. B.)

ANSWER.—Gallstones once formed in the gall-sac can be removed only by operation. That no known remedy will remove or cure gallstones is evident enough in the fact that no known remedy purports to do so, on the least in the United States.

Chemicals and Gallstones. Will you please tell me where I may obtain information as to the amount of calories and also the chemicals contained in food articles? (T. L.)

ANSWER.—Send ten cents in coin to the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., and ask for the "Chemical Composition of Food Materials," Bulletin 23, Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters, pertaining to health. Only localities of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Address Dr. Wm. Brady, Gazette.

Q. What country does its laws most strictly? A. W. C.

A. A recent book on police systems states that China has the most law-abiding people on earth.

Q. Did canaries really come from the Canary Islands? J. L.

A. The biological survey says that the usual origin of the canary as a cage bird is obscure. It seems probable that captive canaries were first secured from the Canary Islands, but it is doubtful that this has been the source of all our birds of this kind. The serin flock of middle and southern Europe is so similar that it may often have been captured and taken to this country by its original owners. Give full name and address. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.

Q. Is President Harding in favor of civilian military training camps? A. B.

A. The president of the United States has said that he hopes to see established, during his administration, a comprehensive system of voluntary military training for all young men a year. He thinks that every young man who is willing to prepare himself for the defense of his country should be given the opportunity. Give full name and address. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.

Q. Just what is a consular agent? J. H. T.

A. A consular agent is an officer subordinate to a consul general or a consul, and is usually a local business man. He is stationed at a place different from that at which the consulate general or consulate is situated. He acts entirely under the direction of his principal, and is usually a local business man.

Q. When and where did the game of croquet originate? C. H.

A. There are no authentic data regarding the origin of this game which was a favorite of kings some 200 years ago. Some writers say that it was evolved from the game pallamallu, which was played in Lagore as early as the thirteenth century.

Q. What is a parish? A. C.

A. The word is used to mean an outpost, or a place of safety. This is not what the word meant originally since a parish was not an outpost nor the lowest in caste rank, but a member of a low caste in southern India and Burma, just below Sudra rank.

Q. What is meant by feulgent? V. H. W.

A. This is a French word indicating.

FREE VIEWS OF THE PANAMA CANAL.

Only a few Americans ever will see with their own eyes the great canal at Panama. Nearly all of us have seen maps that show, in black and white outline, the course of the great waterway.

Fortunately, there is a type of map which is not the dead, flat outline, but which comes as nearly as may be to giving one an idea of how the canal looks. This is a bird's-eye view of the whole canal under the direction of the National Geographic Society.

This map is printed in four colors on coated paper, and is 12 by 15 inches. Any reader of the Daily Gazette may secure a copy by filling in the coupon, and sending two cents in stamps for return postage.

Frederic J. Haskin, Director, The Janesville Daily Gazette, Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

I enclose herewith two cents in stamps for return postage on a free copy of The Panama Map.

Country Drivers Eager to "Give a Fellow a Lift"

(By Associated Press.)

Los Angeles.—While automobile drivers in the cities have acquired different, "city" hearts and souls, down in the country roads uphold the ancient traditions of the highway and gladly help a foot-weary traveler on his way, says Dominick McDevitt, who recently arrived in Los Angeles from Boston on a pedestrian journey.

McDevitt left Boston May 7 on a wagon to walk across the continent and back to Chicago by Aug. 1. He was required, under the terms of the bet, to remain on the highway and, while "riding the rails" was barred, he was allowed to accept rides from motorists, and to the generosity of the motorists on the long, open road, he says, is largely due the rapidity of his westward progress.

After going to Portland, Ore., he says he will start the return trip by way of the Evergreen trail.

Youngest Archbishop, Aged 35, Consecrated

(By Associated Press.)

Syracuse, N. Y.—Giuseppe Gariboldi, youngest Roman Catholic archbishop in the world, has been consecrated by Cardinal Francis Nava in the cathedral here. He was the recipient of many gifts from various Italian and foreign dioceses. The most noted was that bequeathed to him by the late Cardinal Ferrari, archbishop of Milan, the latter's pastoral cross.

KEROSENE USES
Windows will take on a wonderful gloss if you put a goodly amount of kerosene in the water they are washed with.

When Washing Olefin or Linoleum put a cup of kerosene into a pail of warm water.

If your Sewing Machine runs stiffly saturate the parts with kerosene and let it sit over night. In the morning wipe dry, then oil with a high grade machine oil, and the machine will run like a breeze.

To Clean Graniteware of smoke and discolorations, wet an old cloth with kerosene and wipe the smoke away.

HINTS
To Keep Dust From Flying under the door into the adjoining room, lay dampened newspaper just inside the door.

Newspapers instead of a Damp Cloth are excellent for pressing clothes. Particles of Dirt in Bottles that it is impossible to reach may easily be removed with a little warm water and soda. Shake the bottle well and then rinse.

NURSE FIGHTS TO RETAIN PROPERTY LEFT BY HUSBAND

Mrs. Morris E. Fuller, formerly Anna G. Heritage, young nurse of Edgerton, is making a fight in the Madison court before Judge C. Z. Luse to retain the $20 shares of stock valued at more than $25,000 in the First National Bank of Madison.

Anna G. Heritage was the third wife of Fuller who at the time of his death was 27. His first wife died in 1871 and the four children are the issue of this marriage. Annie H. Fuller, the second wife died in 1915 and had no children.

It developed during the testimony Thursday that the old capitalist proposed to two other women before Miss Heritage, who was his nurse, married him. She was advised by two ministers to yield to the old man's proposal and that she might better care for him, if married to him. It was claimed that Fuller gave away more than $400,000 in the last eight years of his life.

avenues—the men came out this morning. "We're getting along," Ruth said and smiled with satisfaction. They walked across the fields, headed with building materials, concrete mixers, iron beams, lumber, window sashes and the vast miscellany from which human habitations are built.

As they walked, the color crept back into the girl's cheeks and her eyes brightened as they stood on a back rise of ground—Ruth wanted to put up a big recreation center here—the warm sun came out in a full burst of yellow glory. Impulsively, Ruth pulled off her hat and shook her head, letting the sun warm her hair and her head.

"It's spring," Langley said, taking off his cap and shaking his fingers back through his long yellow hair. "Spring! Usually I feel awfully happy at this time of year—when things first begin coming to life."

Her eyes stared out over the busy roads and the small army of workmen, but she did not see them. Langley looked down at her, with all the sympathy in the world in his eyes. But Ruth was looking away from him.

"Ruth," he began, a certain authoritative note in his voice calling her back again from her little mood of self-sympathy.

"What are you going to get some new clothes?"

"Do you think new dresses are a cure for a broken heart?" she asked resentfully.

"No," he answered. "Only it just

We are certain that you will find it very interesting and profitable to shop at Solomon's.

New stocks have already been added and we respectfully suggest that if you have need for any ready-to-wear garments at this time that you drop in and see us.

SLUMP FAILS TO AFFECT LAWYERS

Business Is Normal Although of Much Different Nature, They Say.

Law business has not suffered in Janesville. In some lines it has increased with still the average number of divorce and equity litigations.

Prominent attorneys in this city who handle the bulk of legal work for Rock county and adjoining districts are unanimous in their statement that there is just as much legal work as ever.

Many cases filed.

There has been a decided change in the type of work, however, outside of the usual actions in civil cases.

For one thing, more mechanic's liens have been filed in the Rock county circuit court than ever before. The court docket is crowded with these documents and judgments on promissory notes. In the register of deeds office the majority of papers filed are mortgages.

Type of Cases Changed.

"For one thing there is less constructive work in the legal profession," said one attorney. "The work now is decidedly more unpleasant, for it deals largely with an effort to liquidate debts and compromise with creditors."

"Where before attorneys were called to form corporations, partnerships and survey bond issues for extension, the situation is now reversed. Corporate attorneys are now called upon to avert bankruptcy and interest creditors on a percent settlement."

Average Grist of Cases.

This contention was borne out by other Janesville lawyers. There is a decided slump in the number of real estate and property transactions. There is dispute on prices, the buyer forgetting the boom and the seller still remembering the price rampart two years ago. Instead, it is mortgages and liens on property.

"You can figure that among a thousand people there will be so many disputes and questions which become legal actions," said another attorney.

There will be divorces in good times and hard times. There are apparently less legal cases in the summer, because the courts are not open as much as in winter, but there is always a grist going through."

WOMEN'S RIGHTS FORGOTTEN WHEN HUSBAND SIGNS REGISTER HERE

Modern rights of women and equal franchise have not done away with the old-fashioned method of hotel registration so far as Janesville hotels are concerned.

The hotel register book tells the story. Married people are signed, "John Doe and wife," more often than "Mr. and Mrs. John Doe." This goes to indicate that old family ties are still more treasured than the newly won political and social rights. Women travelers are apparently indifferent to the manner in which their names are signed.

Another mystery of the hotel register books is the way in which men sign the important book to be checked by the auver clerk.

Up comes a traveler or guest of seemingly important standing and education. He stalks up to the desk and with the pen scribbles a possible name across the register and the poor clerk might as well attempt to read it upside down, for he cannot tell whether it is Ignatz Swadowerski or Sam Brown.

Another weakness that has been detected is the inclination of travelers to give incorrect addresses. They often decline to admit that they come from a small and unheard of city. They sign Chicago, New York or Boston when they may be from "Podunk, Four Corners," under the assumption the big town adds prestige to their name.

Many hotel clerks have become so skilled in reading the register that if a hotel guest gives him half a chance with decent writing he can read the name upside-down and never have to turn the ledger around.

Would He In Style.

Miss McElroy of Madison square complained she had little to wear. Were she living today?

Would she wear a hat? Nay! It's the fashion to go semi-bare.

Life One Dodge After Another for B'r'er Yang

Shanghai—Letters to missionary organizations from Yunnan tell that Yang Tien-tuh, the Yunnan bandit whose name came into the world news after he had kidnaped Dr. A. L. Shelton, a medical missionary, and who was granted amnesty for his offenses and given a high military post for releasing Dr. Shelton, is finding official life not one of roses.

Yang Tien-tuh was given the rank of colonel in the Yunnan provincial forces. Recently he petitioned the tuihsin of the province asking that he be permitted to remain in Yunnan when he was expected to accompany his troops to a distant post.

The former bandit chief fears to travel through villages and towns he formerly terrorized, and even in Yunnan he never dares to start out on the streets except when accompanied by an armed guard.

NEGRO DEATH RATE HIGH IN ST. LOUIS

St. Louis—The death rate of negroes in St. Louis was double that of whites during the last fiscal year, according to the report of John Schmoll, director of public welfare. Director Schmoll attributed the condition to improper housing and a careless manner of living. Undernourishment of children also is blamed.

"MY DEAR SIR": IS NEW SALUTATION FOR U. S. LETTERS

J. J. Cunningham, as postmaster here, has changed his salutation on official letters. It is now "My Dear Sir, Madam or Miss." The stereotyped form of "Dear Sir, Madam or Miss" has been partially discarded and the more informal salutation substituted in accord with an order of Will Hays, the postmaster general.
"In no part of your work does the demand for human quality apply more than in writing letters," says Mr. Hays. "By far the largest contact of this department with the public is by means of the letters written. Letters can be cold stereotyped, following the same routine day by day, appearing more or less machine-made, and the impression which the recipient has upon reading the letter is that it has been given scant attention."

Dirigibles Drug on Market in England

London—Dirigible airships appear to be in little demand here. A number of them that cost the British government a mint of money to build are now practically going begging.
"The air ministry announced some time ago that it was prepared to give up airships if they were not taken over by private persons for commercial purposes.
It now states that it has been decided that unless an offer that amounts to something is received before Aug. 1, all the airship activities will be discontinued.

Local Fans Get Private Dope that Favors Carpentier

DEMPSEY BACKERS CONTINUE STRONG BUT TIDE CHANGES

(By FRANK SINGLARD)

A general shift of opinion is taking place in the east, especially in New York, according to the information that is coming back to Janesville through channels considered of good authority.

"It's all Carpentier now," said one Janesville business man Thursday, a close follower of the game, who does not care to have his name associated with Dempsey until it is received a letter from an old friend of mine who has been an exceptional student in flit affairs.

Dempsey Not Hit

"He declares that Dempsey is but a shell and has been showing the effects of the life he is said to have led for the past several years. He says that Dempsey is a coward and that he is ready to place all his bets on the superior intelligence and speed of Carpentier. Dempsey's breathing is bad in his opinion and he stresses the fact that the big writers are exceptionally quiet."

"This man says that Dempsey will not be able to stand a broiling sun, say anything for the first time for the past several weeks around Jersey City. It will cause him to crumple, he states."

"I also got a telegram from Alex Riedel, who lives in New York, who is interested in the Waldorf hotel. Russell wired that it looks like Carpentier now."

Beautiful Look to Win

Carpentier has also caused Henry Solomon, merchant, to change his confidence in Dempsey.

"I was all Dempsey until Wednesday night," he said Thursday. "I had two men from New York in to see me who have attended every fight they could in the east. Before coming out here they spent several days in Dempsey's camp at Atlantic City and Carpentier's at Manhattan. All they can say is Carpentier. Dempsey may be big in their minds, but he will have to say some to overcome the terrible speed of Georges."

"They concede that Dempsey has a whole of a punch, but they don't think that he will ever be able to land. They said that these boxing boys of New York will carry him out of danger and by keeping Dempsey working hard he'll tire him and then put over a wicked punch and it will be all over."

Curious

Another Carpentier man is George Sonnett, former Cardinal basketball player who says:

"I've got a 2 to 1 bet that Carpentier is a star. I think he'll knock out the Frenchman in six rounds. I'm in a 4-round exhibition at Milwaukee and he's the fastest man I ever saw. He was up against a man 20 years heavier than himself and he followed him around like a dog and he won. That was in an exhibition. The question is how long can he stand."

In a message from New York, where he was to see the fight, Harry Schwartz, local tobacco dealer, declares that he has changed his mind from Carpentier.

"I look tough for the Frenchman," he writes, "but both men work out in their respective camps. I was strongly for Carpentier before I came down here, but now it looks tough for Carp."

Some Dempsey Fans

Here are some other opinions of Janesville men:

Joe Delaney, cigar store partner— "I think that Dempsey will knock out the Frenchman in six rounds. It seems to me that Carpentier is too old in the game for a fellow like Dempsey. Jack seems to be in much better shape and has had some better experience."

James Crook, inside salesman— "Carpentier will stay the full 12 rounds."

Peter Champion, policeman— "Carpentier is going to win with a fight to the law in the fourth."

Victor E. Hemming, former star Wisconsin University basketball player— "Dempsey will win with a body punch in the fourth round. I would like to see Carpentier win, but it doesn't look that way."

Paul Kirchhoff, clerk— "Dempsey will win on a knockout but I wouldn't bet on the rounds."

Look What Willard Got

Clinton S. Breckenridge, center fielder of the Janesville Tractors— "I think Dempsey will win, but I am not sure. I was strong for Willard two years ago, but look what he got."

Jack Murphy, assistant city chief, Wisconsin Bell Telephone company— "Dempsey will win before the seventh round. Carpentier is faster and more cunning, but Dempsey has the superior strength."

George Kuehn, printer— "Carpentier will win in the seventh round. I've just got a hunch that Dempsey is not so good as he is cracked up to be."

Richard Taylor, real estate operator— "I don't see why Carp can't win. He's fast, although he may not have enough strength."

Best of 'Em Fall

John Gross, janitor— "You never can tell. The best of them fall. I would like to see Carpentier win, but I don't think he will."

Thomas Ross, printer— "If Carpentier stays four rounds, he has a good chance to win. I don't like Dempsey."

Harry V. Ross, printer— "It's Dempsey."

Ralph D. Harmon, captain in command of "I" company, tank corps— "Dempsey will win in seven rounds."

Emmett Murray, ticket seller at the Chicago & Northwestern station— "Nothing but Dempsey."

Honry Brackett, left fielder of the Janesville Tractors— "Dempsey will win but it's going to be a great scrap."

Lathrop Sees Dempsey

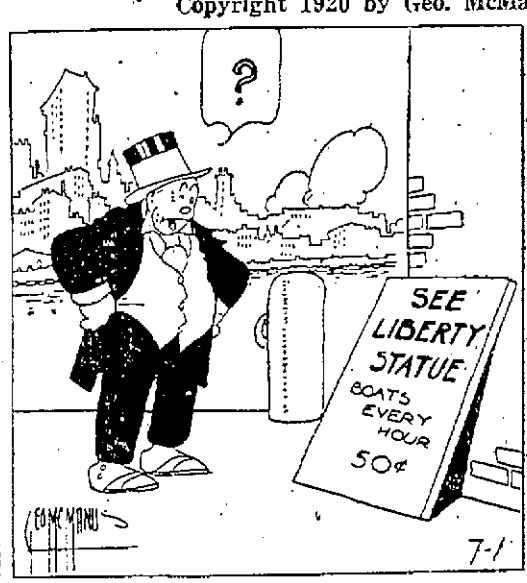

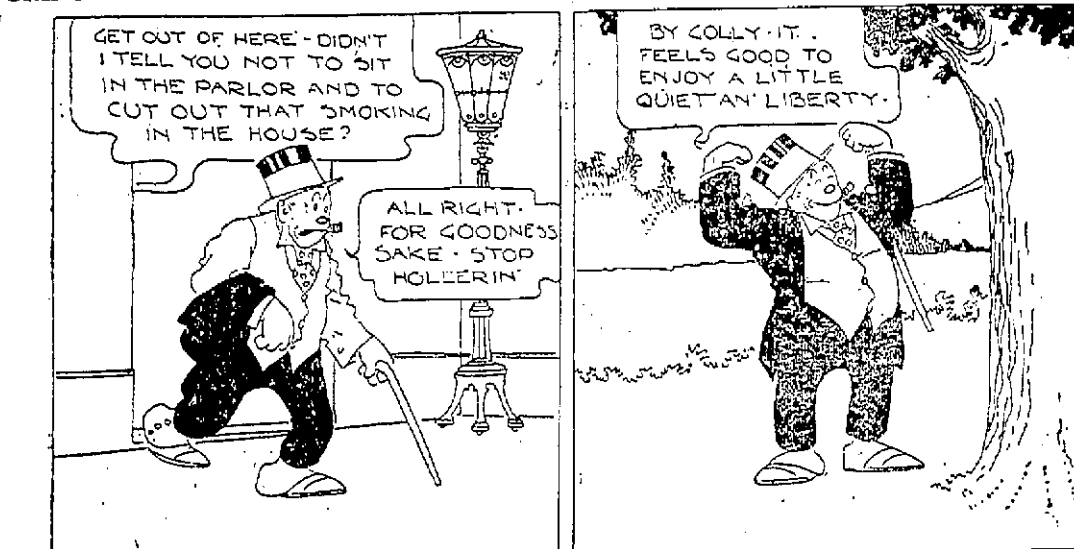

William G. Lathrop, pitcher of the Janesville Tractors— "I cannot figure any other way than that Dempsey will win."

J. T. Hooper, superintendent, Wisconsin School for the Blind— "Oh, yes, I have been reading a bit about the fight. I think Dempsey will win around the fifth round."

Jack O'Hara, printer and old-time ball player— "He will win with a punch to the body around the fourth round."

Al Dietz, right promoter— "Dempsey is going to land a punch between the fourth and sixth rounds."

BRINGING UP FATHER

WEIGHTY INTEREST IN THIRD CONTEST WITH RACINE CLUB

If you know where Minonk, Ill., might be, you know the place where the Kansas City Monarchs annexed a 9 to 6 win Thursday from the town team of that burgh. It was a free hitting contest with Minonk out-batting the "colored gentlemen" 13 to 10 and the Kansas City crew chalking up three errors.

The Monarchs are due to arrive here to play the Tractors at the fair grounds at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon. According to the advance dope issued by Manager Perring of the locals, the Kansas outfit is leading the national negro league with a half game lead over Rube Foster's All-American Giants.

Rubbers Here Sunday

On Sunday the Racine Rubbers come back for the third game of the series. This promises to be the hottest contest of the season and a good sized crowd of Racine rooters is due to pull into town in that huge truck of theirs.

Interest in the Tractor-Racine game seems to have grown to about as high a pitch as is possible between the towns. Only one other combination would make it seem better and that would be Beloit and Janesville.

Racine has two victories stored in her chest over the Janesville boys. Both were won week-end by one run margins in 10 innings.

Nash Scribes Alibi to Fans

Nash Motors went home from Janesville Wednesday and the story they gave out to the poor public of Kenosha is rich. They laid the 5 to 0 defeat at the hands of the Tractors to a look master pitcher, coupled with bad breaks and the fact that the "Tractors" were on their own grounds, had their own umps, and consequently the game went to them."

As to Pitcher Miller, who lasted one-third of an inning, they report, "Chet Murphy, who had a kink in his back when he left Kenosha Wednesday morning, got out on his wrong foot in the dugout and after he had allowed three hits and a tally, Manager Walter Miller went into the box and pitched a commendable game for the motormen."

"That's one paper Miller's another: 'The motormen were handicapped in that they did not have a pitcher to do the twirling as Cholewa was not in the city and Murphy's arm proved to be in no condition.' ... Lathrop, pitching for the Tractors, used the enemy ball with an occasional 'best' one that seemed to perplex the motormen. Frequently some of the Nash team were hitting the ball, and with the exception of O'Day, Croelling and Cole, the Nash nine remained hitless. The enemy ball has been barred from baseball and with the Nash team that sort of a pill, it is extremely doubtful that the Samson (?) Tractors will be booked for a return game here in Kenosha. The Tractors have a fine infield, but their outfield was pretty rough and allowed the Tractors a couple of two-base hits that otherwise on another diamond would have only been singles."

Local Clergy Condemns Brutality of the Ring

Dempsey and Carpentier, and the promoters of the big fight don't get a look-in with the clergy of Janesville. While boxing is favored among the ministers here as a sport, the commercialized aspect which they say breeds gambling is detested. Following are some of the opinions.

Rev. Franklin Lewis, pastor of the Carnegie Memorial M. E. church stated that he is not in favor of the big scrap, stating that it is nothing other than a prize fight.

"Common boxing is all right," he said, "but since the war they have gone back to the old methods of permitting prize fights under the name of boxing matches. I am not in favor of brutal combat."

Commercialized sport of any nature is opposed by the Rev. J. A. Melrose of the Presbyterian church who stated:

"I am opposed to any sport that is commercialized. Rough matches of any nature are all right if they are conducted strictly as a sport but when they are commercialized they reach the plane of gambling and are harmful. I frequently have the boys in my church do a little boxing between themselves and this is all right because it is conducted as a sport. Boxing is not harmful until it is commercialized."

Boxing is fine as an exercise, in the opinion of the Rev. T. C. Thorson, pastor of the First Lutheran church, but when matches are staged for money he does not favor them. He is also against permitting matches to go to the point of a knockout.

Other Janesville clergymen could not be reached to be interviewed or did not care to be quoted.

Cutts Injured, Quits Doughboys

Sunday the Janesville Bake-Mites travel to Charley Buell, Lake Koshong, to play the Milton Junction Crescents. The Doughboys will be minus their heavy hitting catcher, Cutts, for the rest of the season on account of injuries. Down will catch Sunday, but it is undecided who will finish the league with the Bakers. The Pastory boys practice at Fordson diamond Friday.

HAWKS MEET FOLKE'S IN SUNDAY BATTLE

Folke's White Sox will welcome the Black Hawks at their home diamond at Rock Hill Sunday. The Sox have a good record, having defeated the Third Ward Glens and Monterey Wolves. The game will be called 2:30. Kruger and Hahn will pitch for the Hawks with Knickerbocker and McGinnis for the Sox.

The Hawks have re-arranged their lineup, bringing White and Bill Hahn back with Steket's help. The Hawks are waiting for reply in challenging the Center White Sox for a contest at the Farm Bureau celebration at Center July 4. The Hawks have split with that team, 4 to 1 and 4 to 3.

CLUB TEAM BOOKS 3 WEEK-END GAMES

Three games have been booked by the Club Billiards for the week-end Friday they are down to play the Eagles at the fair grounds at 5:30 in the city league.

BORAH WINS IN FIGHT TO DISARM

Administration Lost a Point in Failing to See Public Opinion.

By DAVID LAWRENCE.
Copyright 1921, by Janesville Gazette.
Washington.—Senator Borah of Idaho, champion of disarmament, stands out today as the victor in the contest with the Harding administration. Reluctant for reasons never divulged, the administration first frowned upon Mr. Borah's efforts to present question to the front, then conceded the point and passed the word to republican senators that no objection was entertained to their support of the measure, and finally made an effort through republican leader Non-Com to get a broad resolution passed which would cover military as well as naval disarmament. That the proposal of the administration was finally abandoned in the house and the Borah resolution came through with flying colors.

The reasons that lie back of the administration's change of policy have not been on the surface at all, and several republicans who watched the rising tide of disarmament in the country have insisted that whatever the reasons for the change, the administration probably may take, the house could not afford to get into a tangle on the question by voting down the Borah idea of a three power conference between Britain, Japan, and the United States.

Conciling a Conference.
The truth is the Borah resolution doesn't prevent the executive from summoning a conference to all the powers, nor does it inhibit Mr. Harding from including land armament as well. The president has a right to negotiate with the executive committee under the sun, and no matter what agreement was negotiated, congress would have the final say as to the stoppage of appropriations for naval building. The administration forces have not relished the idea of being led by Senator Borah. In the past all important policies sanctioned by an administration have been initiated by the spokesman of the administration in the house or senate. In this case, Senator Borah took little part in the proceedings. Republican leaders and his efforts to broaden the resolution were abandoned. It was decided to yield to Mr. Borah.

Virtual Business Matters.
Explanations given today vary. Some hold the desire of the executive was to get congress busy on much more vital matters of business than a mere expression of opinion, which, after all, is what the Borah resolution does. It doesn't accomplish disarmament. It requests the president to confer with other powers and discuss the matter. It's always a long way from discussion to achievement in foreign affairs.

Nevertheless, the forcing of the administration's hand on a problem so big in the public mind as disarmament has not passed without significant comment on one side to the effect that republican leadership in congress is not making the most of republican opportunities.

Disarmament Question.
The change to greater disarmament question and make it an administration policy from the start was politically an excellent one. Members of the house recognized it by their refusal to sidetrack the Borah resolution with any new proposition that might mean a delay in getting a vote.

From all sides President Harding has been urged from the very beginning of his administration to disarmament throughout the world. It has been pointed out that his opportunities to rid the European countries of the heaviest burden of their tax on armaments have been greater than that vouchsafed any American president. The question has indeed been brought closer home by the announcement of Secretary Mellon that the European countries owe the United States more than a billion dollars in interest since the war.

Million Dollars Interest.
The ability of Europe to pay that interest depends upon the amount needed for domestic appropriations on armies and navies. If America could have received a billion dollars in interest, income taxes would have been correspondingly decreased in the United States, because there would have been just a billion dollars less to raise from American taxpayers. The overwhelming votes for the Borah resolution in both the senate and the house are not altogether the expression of a new sentimentalism about armament and the prevention of wars. The votes are really the expressed apprehension of members of congress that they will not be re-elected unless they at least make gestures in the direction of disarmament and government economy.

To White House.
The subject is now transferred to the White House. The president has been canvassing the other powers through the supreme council on which Ambassador Harvey, great friend of Senator Borah, is the American representative. Will make necessary compromise more than in former feuds. The Idaho senator is not the kind who will allow his resolution to be passed and piecemealed. At the proper time he will make pertinent inquiries to the progress being made in the negotiations. Mr. Borah has grasped a popular issue and will tenaciously cling to it until something concrete is accomplished.

COOPERATION NEED FOR ROCK COUNTY

It Will Make This Section Famous for Dairy and Farm.

By LEWIS C. FRENCH.
There are good reasons why Wisconsin, in particular Southern Wisconsin, is leading not only in the production of dairy products, but also in other branches of farming. The answer is agriculture team work for improvement.

Will make and ability to cooperate have made Southern Wisconsin farmers among the most progressive and have caused her to yield bounteous crops.

Wisconsin is the banner dairy state in the world, for her Guernsey herds lead and the state is rapidly developing into the leading Holstein center, superior even to important New York with the "spotted" cattle. Likewise Wisconsin leads in the production of pure bred seeds.

County Must Improve.
Cooperation has made Wisconsin one of the most progressive livestock states in the Union. Seemingly barren opportunities have been over come and the state is developing. What does all the great agriculture work mean for Rock county? The state has a background of rare opportunities in agriculture. It has an established reputation created not by one man or one organization, but cooperative work by practically all the phases of Wisconsin's rural activity.

When a buyer in another state considers purchasing good dairy cattle, he naturally thinks of Wisconsin. He knows the state has good herds. The thing for Rock county to do and what it should do, is to centralize attention on the county as a unit. It takes development and working together for the good of agriculture with the whole of Rock county as a unit.

Rock county farmers are business men enough to know that goods in demand bring the prices. They know that pedigreed stock means money. There is hardly a grower in Rock county who has produced prize seed but who has doubled and trebled the

The same policy relates to livestock. The county does not like to confine its herds to one breed. They can have Holsteins, Guernseys, Short-horns, Brown Swiss and Durhams. But the point is to have the best of the state and Wisconsin has the leadership in the country. The county should be able to further realize on the reputation of Wisconsin.

Produce and develop better livestock and crops. It means producing more hard cash when a district has farm material that is superior. It means more buyers, more offers and more demand. Indifference is the one bailing point to the development. It takes vigilance to keep high standards and farm reputation, but it is worth the effort, money and labor it returns.

Must Show Speed.
Wisconsin is very much alive agriculturally and it means prosperity to the state. It means high production of marketable goods. But the contention is that Rock county should be a few degrees more alive than the rest of the state through solid cooperation.

The methods of cooperation are by no means complete. There should be means and methods of improving the herds of the county to surpass those in Green and Jefferson counties, two great dairy districts. Rock county has a good start and all the county now needs is to jump and show speed in stock improvement.

Corn developed on the famous soils in Southern Wisconsin is being sold in every northern corn belt state. There is wonderful opportunity for Rock county to further this business—to step out and with cooperative effort raise the best seed in Wisconsin and then cooperate to sell. Make them known as "Rock county products" to be backed by a sound reputation.

FIGURES IN WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP FISTIC CONTEST JULY 2, 1921

Carp, Miner's Son, Rose Steadily in Ring Record

New York—Georges Carpentier, the French "Man of Destiny," they do not doubt, the ability of this man, decorated for bravery during the World War, to defeat Jack Dempsey on July 2. They have followed the steady rise of the young pugilist from the days when, as a hantam, he first gained national note. In their minds, Dempsey will be unable to tell this national hero, just as German machine guns which riddled his plane repeatedly, were unable to bring him down.

Carpentier spent 18 months at the front, flying a two-seater observation plane. He received the Croix de Guerre and the Médaille Militaire.

Enlisted in 1914.

Stationing as a chauffeur in August, 1914, he received a license to pilot a Farman airplane in May, 1915. He and never returned. In May, 1917, being declared physically unfit to continue as a pilot. He was detached from aviation and detailed as army physical instructor near Paris. Six months after the armistice, he was transferred back to the aviation and demobilized.

Son of Miner.

Carpentier's courageous demeanor and evident culture, unusual in a boxer, have created the impression in America that he is the son of wealthy parents. This is not so.

The son of a miner, Carpentier was born in Lens, the coal-mining center of France on Jan. 12, 1894. He started work as an office boy in a brewery. The ring called early and when only 14, he took up boxing, then being popularized in France by the visits of "Kid" McCoy and other

Since that time, Carpentier has climbed steadily. Sometimes, he has slipped but the progress has been consistently upward. He gained his first knockout in 1918 as a hantam when he stepped Moineux in three rounds. The same year, he defeated Salmon, one of England's clearest men, in 18 rounds. A short time later, he knocked out in one round Wladimir, who almost held him even two years before.

It was in 1919 that Carpentier defeated Charlie Ledoux, famous French hantam and the greatest boxer he had met up to that time. More fame followed when he defeated Paul Tili in 10 rounds, but soon after Georges was knocked out by Gloria in six rounds.

Carpentier met his first American opponent, Frank Loughrey, in May, 1921, winning a decision. Meeting the best of American boxers, including Harry Lewis, a well-known middleweight, and Dixie Kid, in five rounds, he nevertheless developed steadily, gaining in weight, strength and cleverness until he defeated Jim

RAWLINGS AND STENGEL TRADED TO NEW YORK

LICENSE FOR FIGHT GRANTED THURSDAY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Jersey City. — Chairman Robert L. Doherty of the New Jersey Boxing Commission issued the permit for the Carpentier-Dempsey contest to the New Jersey Athletic club and Tex Rickard, Thursday night.

PRINCIPALS IN THE BIG HEAVYWEIGHT BATTLE was sent with a squadron to the front, remaining three months and then was assigned to general reserve aviation as a spare pilot. On August 28, 1915, he suffered a leg injury but recovered rapidly and was sent to the front with the 8th Aviation Squadron for reconnaissance work in preparation for the Champagne offensive, which began Sept. 25, 1918.

Carpentier's citation, resulting in the award of the Croix de Guerre, reads: "Sept. 25, he did not hesitate to fly during misty weather and rain less than 200 yards above enemy lines. He has given proof in many circumstances of sans fear, never returning until his mission was accomplished, often with his machine riddled with bullets and shell splinters."

In December, 1916, he was forced to fly from the front because of illness

American fighters. At the same time, he was dancing and singing in the cafes of Lens with Francis Desamps, who has since been his companion, guardian and manager. It was Desamps who discovered in him the rudiments of a potential boxer. He attempted, one day, to punish the youth, using boxing gloves. In the midst of the scheduled "punishment," Desamps relates that Georges slipped down with agility and poise—the lights suddenly went out on me.

From that moment, Georges was a boxer. Desamps, somewhat of a fighter himself, started to train him. He fought three four-round battles in that first year and his total ring earnings were $7.51. He will receive that much for each two seconds of his bout with Dempsey, provided the match goes the scheduled 12 rounds.

Sullivan for the middleweight championship of Europe.

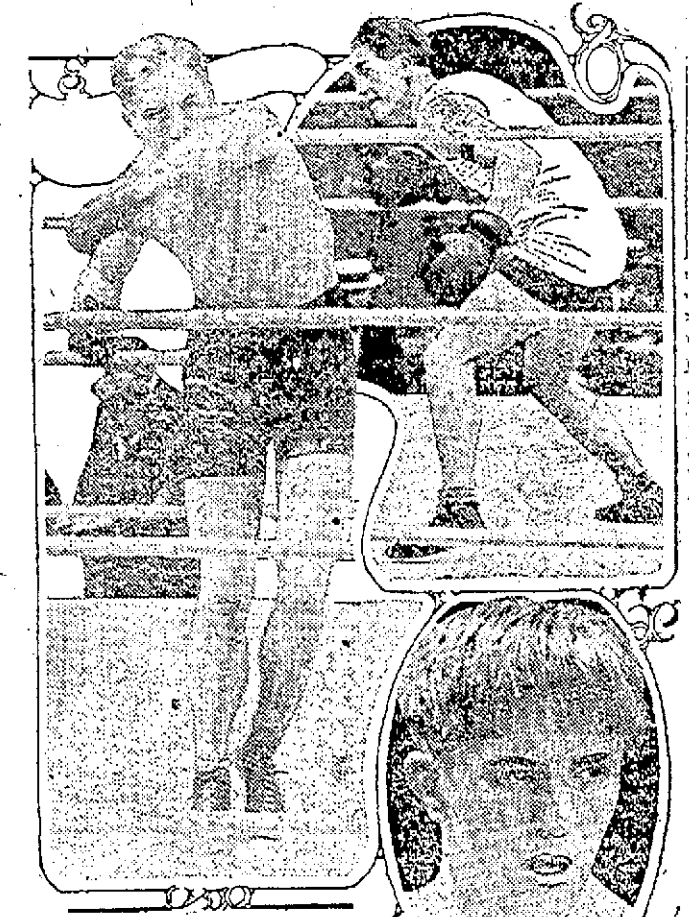

Two defeats at the hands of the Americans Billy Papke and Frank Klaus, marked 1912. Papke stopped Carpentier in 17 rounds and Klaus beat him on a foul when the nimble-brained Desamps clambered into the ring to save his protégé from a knockout.

Two bouts with Bombardier Wells, both of which the Frenchman won by knockouts, featured 1913. Carpentier showed great gameness in his first fight with Wells when he was knocked down for the count of nine in the first round, but came back to win in the fourth. The second Wells battle was a Carpentier victory in one round. In the same year, he knocked out Cyclone Smith, Bandman Rice and George Gunther. Carpentier lost no ground in the eyes of ring followers when defeated by Joe Jeannette, American negro heavyweight, in 1917. It was to his credit that he twice sent the negro to the mat for counts of nine.

But the war was close at hand and his six-round victory over Gunbont Smith on a foul was his only important battle before the Frenchman exchanged boxing gloves for an airplane and machine gun. Exhibitions behind the lines composed his entire boxing activities until 1919 when, shortly after being discharged from the service, he knocked out Dick Smith in Paris. Since that time, his battle with Joe Beckett of England, which he won in a round and that in which he knocked out Battling Levinsky in four rounds at Jersey City, N. J., last summer have been his only contests of importance. The Levinsky fight is the only one in which Americans have seen Carpentier in formal action on this side of the water. It was a match so far as a championship test is concerned. The Frenchman will climb through the ropes on July 2 an unknown quantity, so far as the first-hand information of American boxing fans is concerned.

WHEN GEORGES IS ROUSED HE LOSES DAPPER APPEARANCE AND HIS SMILE

AT TIMES IT'S A SOFT LIFE FOR CHAMP, EVEN WHILE TRAINING TO DEFEND TITLE

Jack Dempsey, left, and manager Jack Kearns, riding on the board walk at Atlantic City after the champ's daily workout.

Most photos these days show Jack Dempsey dressed in his ring togs and perspiring through a workout. Here we have Mr. Champ all dolled up and taking life easy for a few minutes. Jack and his manager are saying howdy to the Atlantic City folk from a wheel chair.
